Plate 3. Sketch plan of the Sung Wong T'oi hill, Kowloon, and its earthworks. The numbers 1-11 refer to pp. 68-69 in the text.

(Plates 3-6 by courtesy of Mr. Walter Schofield)
Plate 4. Sung Wong T'oi Earthwork, probably 13th century, crest of hill facing East.
Plate 5. View of mouth of the Ma T’au Ch’ung from the top of Sung Wong T’oi, 15th May 1937.

Plate 7. The walls and inside of the Kai Yik Kok fort.

Plate 8. The stone platform upon which the fort was built.

(Plates 8-13 by courtesy of Mr. Armando Da Silva)

Plate 10. The fort at Kai Yik Kok. The terraces shown on the lower centre of the picture belonged, at least until 1904, to the Cheng family.
Plate 11. The fields of Fan Lau.
Plate 12. Entrance to the fort, viewed from the outside.

Plate 13. Entrance to the fort, viewed from inside. (The rubble walling is on the right of the photograph).

(Plate 12 gives evidence of repairs to the original arch, i.e. the stone slab visible in the photograph. Plate 13 shows the full original arch, from inside the fort. They hint at the possibility that the fort is old and has been repaired at least once in its history.)
Plate 14. Members of the Society and children of the area, outside the Kam Ha Ching She vegetarian hall (see p. 144).

Plate 15. Vegetarian refreshments are offered by an elderly inmate of the Tsing Shat vegetarian hall (the fourth visited—see p. 143).

(Plates 14-19 are by courtesy of Miss P.E. Wortley-Talbot, a member of the Hong Kong Branch.)
Plate 16. The front of the Wing Lok T'ung vegetarian hall (see p. 143).

Plate 17. Soul-tablets of deceased inmates and other members. Decorations attaching to some tablets were said to have been placed there by close associates (see p. 147).
Plate 18. An altar in one of the halls visited. At top left is a portrait of a female "master" in the sect (see p. 144).

Plate 19. The Ngau Chi Wan village temple with which inmates of the halls maintain a friendly connection (see p. 147).
Plate 20. Hong Kong, Central District 1843 (see p. 156).

Re-drawn from a Survey Map compiled by the Royal Engineers in mid-1843
in CO 129/II, F. 455 (Colonial Office records)
Plate 21. Reaping hook from Lantau Island, Hong Kong (see p. 161).

Plate 22. Reaping hook from Lantau Island, Hong Kong (see p. 161).

(Plates 21-22 by courtesy of the Curator, City Hall Museum and Art Gallery, Hong Kong.)